3. Library and Archives Canada "Lender of Last Resort" Service

From Cecilia Muir, Chief Operating Officer, Library and Archives Canada

"On November 18, 2013, Library and Archives Canada (LAC) will implement a "lender of last resort" service, through which Canadian libraries will be able to access published materials uniquely held at LAC. This service was developed in the context of the User Roundtable convened in late 2012 and early 2013. My thanks once again to those of you who were engaged directly in this work. Your input has informed this service, and I have attached the service description as it will appear on our website.

LAC is continuing to provide access to our collections through on-site services at 395 Wellington, through digitization-on-demand services, and increasingly through our large-scale digitization initiatives, which will enable us to extend online access to high-demand material on microfilm. We are continuing to facilitate interlibrary loan activities among other institutions through ongoing administration of Canadian Library Symbols, and through the ILL form in AMICUS. Our own approach to loans will focus on items that are unique to LAC's holdings that are not available through other institutions, through digital channels, or through paid service options.

LAC recognizes that it will be important for us to monitor and adapt our capacity over time as we determine the level of engagement in the lender of last resort service. I wanted to ensure you are aware we will be doing this, as we will need your feedback. With that in mind, I will convene a follow-up roundtable discussion in 2014 and will invite you to share thoughts on the service in progress. In the meantime, if you have any comments or questions, please feel free to be in touch with our lead in client services, Fabien Lengellé, Director General of Services (Fabien.Lengelle@bac-lac.gc.ca).

4. FOPL: Public Libraries Capital Needs

The Federation of Ontario Public Libraries (FOPL) recently polled their members to determine where things stood with respect to keeping up with the increased demand on library facilities. In October 2013, FOPL surveyed their membership about their plans and current initiatives for new branches, branch replacements, and renovations. We also surveyed the status of compliance with AODA (Access for Ontarians with Disabilities Act) requirements.

Ontario public library in-branch usage has been growing for many years. As such, pressure has been building on this critical community infrastructure that supports recreation, programs, reading, homework support, job searching, and research databases, and internet and computer access for everyone in the community to participate in our province's daily life for work, learning and play.

6. Canadian Archives Summit: Towards a New Blueprint for Canada's Recorded Memory

Representatives from l'Association des Archivistes du Quebec (AAQ), the Association of Canadian Archivists (ACA), and the Canadian Council of Archives (CCA) as well as Ian E. Wilson, the former Librarian and Archivist of Canada, have planned a special Canadian Archives Summit: Towards a New Blueprint for Canada's Recorded Memory at the Munk School of Global Affairs, University of Toronto, 8:30 to 5:00, on Friday, January 17, 2014.

The Summit is intended to provide the Canadian archival community an opportunity to consider its future and envision how Canada's documentary heritage remains a valued part of Canada's knowledge infrastructure. The Canadian Archives Summit: Towards a New Blueprint for Canada's Recorded Memory will be a national, interactive discussion.

8. Op-Ed: Farewell to Depository Services, a building block of democracy

(Excerpt from Ottawa Citizen, Nov. 4, 2013)

A robust democracy needs informed and active citizens. But how do we achieve this? One answer is, in many small ways. One of those unheralded building blocks of democracy will disappear at the end of this year. You may not have even heard of it: the Depository Services Program. But chances are if you've ever tried to find federal government information, it has helped you.

Started in 1927, the Depository Services Program, or DSP, has made sure federal government documents are available to the people of Canada. Not just available, but accessible to everyone: from the student learning about government, to the professor researching policy, to the person needing to find out how a law has changed so he can defend himself in court.

Counting Opinions has launched a Canadian Library Data (CLD) portal (<http://canada.countingopinions.com>) to facilitate the establishment of a pan-Canadian library data set that ...

- provides all Canadian public libraries with an opportunity to contribute to and leverage a national comparative data set
- offers comparable public library data to advocate for improved services to benefit Canadians

- facilitates research on Canadian public libraries, and
- promotes Canadian public libraries within Canada and abroad.

News From CLA Committees and Networks

CLA networks are established by and for CLA members and non-members: they provide an area for focus on member-identified needs within the broad national library and information community. Networks may be established in a variety of areas, including but not limited to: a type of library activity; a type of material; a type of library or library patron; a geographic location; a social, political or educational issue; a category of worker in the information sector.

There is no cost to join these networks. To subscribe, simply e-mail membership@cla.ca indicating your preferred networks.

In this issue the Evidence-Based Library and Information Practice Network is being profiled.

The Evidence-Based Library and Information Practice Network (EBLIPN) is currently seeking new members! The goals of the Network are:

1. To represent the interests of librarians involved in evidence-based librarianship (EBL) and library related research.
2. To organize continuing education opportunities for librarians in this area.
3. To provide a means of communication between librarians involved in evidence-based librarianship.
4. To assist librarians with the dissemination of library research utilizing an evidence-based model.

EBLIPN has an active listserv, and this listserv offers members the opportunity to communicate, share, and disseminate knowledge regarding EBL and library-related research with one another. It is a great way to network with others engaged in EBL and research, and to keep current on EBL related events, workshops, sessions, and conferences.

If you are interested in joining EBLIPN, please contact the CLA Office at membership@cla.ca.

CLA Copyright Advisory Committee Response to Notice & Notice provisions of the Copyright Modernization Act

Dear Minister Glover and Minister Moore,

Thank you for providing the Canadian Library Association with the opportunity to comment on bringing the Notice & Notice provisions of the Copyright Modernization Act into force.

CLA makes the following comments:

1. Given that Search Engines have 30 days to respond to a notice by removing its cached copies of material "that has already been removed from the specified electronic location", CLA recommends that ISPs and hosts are required to forward any notice received from a copyright holder to its subscriber within 30 days.
2. CLA strongly recommends that the government prescribe a form for each type of notice to ensure that all the required elements in a notice are actually included (as is permitted in s.41.25(2)).

Call for Proposals

The call for proposals for the 2014 CLA National Conference in Victoria is closed. CLA received over 175 submissions and the new CLA Conference Standing Committee will have their work cut out for them.

New this year is the ability for the library and information community to review and "Like" their favorite submissions. CLA encourages you to go to the site and if you review a proposal and would like it included in the program, click the "Like" checkmark at the top of the page. The CLA Conference Standing Committee will see these likes when reviewing submissions.

All presenters will be notified by the end of December 31, 2013.

CLA Awards

CLA Advancement of Intellectual Freedom in Canada Award - Submission Deadline November 30

To coincide with Freedom to Read Week, the CLA Advancement of Intellectual Freedom in Canada Award will be presented at a special event in February as part of the the Freedom to Read Week celebrations in Toronto. The event is organized by the Book and Periodical Council, with the participation of CLA and The Writers Union of Canada.

The CLA Intellectual Freedom Advisory Committee is now seeking nominations for this Award. The deadline for submissions is November 30, 2013.

CLA Advancement of Intellectual Freedom in Canada Award this award recognizes and honours outstanding contributions to intellectual freedom in Canada by individuals or groups.
