

Library History Network

Terms of Reference:

The Library History Network holds that Librarianship and related fields require an understanding of their historical, theoretical, and philosophical foundations in order to face intelligently present and future challenges and aspirations.

The Network has four major aims:

1. To adopt as its areas of concern the history of Libraries and related fields particularly as they relate to Canada.
2. To encourage awareness and discussion of the social and cultural role " within an historical context " of Libraries, Librarianship, and related fields in a changing world.
3. To promote research and publication on Library History and related fields.
4. To foster communication among various disciplines relevant to Library History.

Plan of activities:

1. To hold sessions at annual CLA Conferences where research papers can be presented.
2. To develop publication routes for these papers.
3. To provide an (electronic) communication service for people supporting the Network and Library History.
